What the Utah Eastern Cost the People

WHEN IT WAS GOBBLED UP.

What it Will Cost to Put It Into Repair-The Receiver' Report.

Mr. Receiver McMillan, appointed ome time ago to take charge of that engulfed project known as the Utah Eastern railroad, has at length filed his report to the Court, and the stockholders of the company, whose name may be said to be legion, may now gain an understanding of just how much of their property has been left unswallowed by that gigantic cormorant the Union Pacific. The report is a very extensive one but boiled down into comprehensive compass, it may be summed up as follows:

Pursuant to his appointment and duty, Mr. McMillan opens by stating he paid a visit to the property of which he was appointed Receiver during the early part of March, and remained several days on the ground inspecting its condition. An inventory was taken, but there was considerable snow on the there was considerable show on the road in places, which rendered it likely that all property belonging to the Utah Eastern was not seen by the Receiver, and he requests permission to make any additional inventory of property that may hereafter be discovered.

An itemized account of all the property found on the road follows. The principal items are:

erty found on the road follows. The principal items are:

A constructed line of railway from Coalville to Park City, consisting of roadbed ties, and track, marrow gauge, twenty-three miles, more or less.

A constructed line of railway from the terminus of the main line at Coalville to the coal company, four miles, more or less.

Coal company, four miles, more or less.

Side tracks and switches, 10,717 feet, and switch stands.

A right of way, graded and improved, from Kimball's station to Salt Lake City.

Holling stock, on the road, consisting of two engines, twenty-two coal cars, way cars, engine houses, blacksmith shops, tools, etc.

The total cost of the road and every improvement and equipment now improvement and equipment now found upon it is placed at $552,912.15, of which sum $291,238.54 was expended in construction.

The receiver states that in addition to the above property, the Utah & Northern is operating, under lease, one engine, two way cars and twenty-five coal cars pelonging to the Utah Eastern, the original coat of which was $25,110.

The receiver is informed that the engine being used by the Utah & Northern road is rented for the sum of $3 per fave and three-fourths of a cent per fave and three-fourths of a cent per struction gine being used by the Utah & Northern road is rented for the sum of $3 per day, and three-fourths of a cent per mile for each mile of each car hauled over the road. The Utah & Northern took possession of the rolling stock on August 2d, 1831.

The Union Pacific railroad furnished the receiver a voucher for $1.132, in value of certain fixtures, tools, lumber, etc., taken from the Utah Eastern railroad in December, 1833.

The line from Goalville to Park City, the Receiver states, has been kept in but indifferent repair since operations were discontinued in December, 1883; from Coalville to Wanship, a level stretch, the road could be placed in good condition at a very small outlay; the bridge over the Weber river, near Wanship, however, is in a dilapidated state, and a considerable expense would be necessary to place it in renair.

Byyond Wanship the road enters Silver Greek Canyon, about seven miles in length, where the grade is much greater but uniform and the road easily operated. The road crosses the creek in this canyon in many places, and four of the bridges are entirely gone. At one point the creek has carried away about 550 feet of the roadbed, but the ties and rails were preserved. Aside from this washout and the construction of bridges, the other repairs required over this portion of the road would be slight.

After leaving the canyon the route of the road lies through a comparatively slight.

After leaving the canyon the route of the road lies through a comparatively uniform level valley. This part of the line is in good shape and but few repairs are needed.

The branch running from Coalville to the coal mines had been operated almost constantly since the time of its construction, the latter part of 1880. The iron and ties are much worn and repairs constantly since the time of its constantly since the time is truction, the latter part of its constantly since the time it can and its are mecessary.

One of the engines at Coalville is in good repair and running order and the other sworn out and would be unsafe for use without thorough repair.

The cars on the road, with those taken off by the Union Pacific, would be unsafe for some time to come.

Mr. McMillan states that he found from an examination of the books of the company was held in Calder's Hall, hast evening, at which the various accounts of the troupe were submitted, a number of misunderstanding explained away, and a general consultation held. After a session of an hour and a half, a vote was taken on the call, and the consultation held. After a session of an hour and a half, a vote was taken on the call, and the consultation held. After a session of an hour and a half, a vote was taken on the call, and the consultation the call the properties of the consultation management. The Union Pacific rail-road company has also been operat-ing the coal mine branch of the Utah Eastern since November, 1833, and the amount of coal hauled over said branch during that time is estimated at 33,879 tons, besides other freight up and down said branch, and so far as the Receiver is informed, no account has ever been made with no account has ever been made with the Utah Eastern or any rentst or pro-rata paid it by said Echo & Park City railroad for the use of said branch, and the engine and cars.

The Utah Eastern Railroad, as constructed, has no connection with any other system, and as in the past so in the future, the only traffic it could have, aside from a small local traffic, must be the hauling of coal mined at and near Coalville, the larger part of which finds a market at Park City.
The Receiver was unable to find how the receipts of the road from November 1st to December 19th, 1883, were applied. Part of them were paid to C. E. Wurtelle, a director of the Utak Eastern, and part to the agent of the Echo & Park City road, which should be accounted for to the Utah Eastern.

A statement of the present value of the equipments of the road is made as follows:

Iron
Rolling stock 44,205.28
Buildings, bridges, ties, etc 5,649.15 $135,940.68

The receiver attaches his estimate of the immediate cost of putting the road in operating condition, should at be deemed advisable to do so. The total cost, according to his estimate, would be $3,250.

as learned from Mr. Sprague, are these:
Mr. Stanchfield, C. V. Watson, Geo. E.
Chandler, Thos. Sappington, L. Martin and D. Ever, are the owners of the Nast mine, in Carr Fork, Binzbam Canyon.
Messirs Stanchfield, Watson and Chandler own the controlling interest in the property, and, the three other owners allege, have been working it, shipping ore, and improperly using the proceeds without rendering any accounting to them. Pending the settlement of this question, the court was asked to issue
a restraining order, and as the motion was grantd, there will probably be no more work done at the Nast until the difficulty between the several owners has been adjusted.

The Result of Skepticism.

There are a good many Herald via the Union Pacific, where Park to premiums still remaining unclaimed, the result either of the numbers having been lost, of the parties holding them being in distant parts of the Territory, or of a failure on the part of holders to take the trouble to compare their numbers to take the trouble to compare their numbers. Premiums still remaining unclaimed, been lost, of the parties holding them being in distant parts of the Territory, or of a failure on the part of holders to take the trouble to compare their numbers with the fortunate list. Auer & Murphy, held five numbers, lost one, and laid the other four away feeling too certain that they were not among the lavored ones, even too take the trouble to look. A Henand book-keeper yesterday sent the firm word that a lucky number, 688, had been originally issued them, and asked what had become of it? Charlie Auer, looking the matter up, found the number in the ash barrel, where it had been thrown a week ago. It drew the fine Glipin Sulky-Plow, and Charlie will be around after it this morning.

We shall publish in the Sunday Henand a fine of the sent limit in the meantime it would be a good idea for those who have not done so, to compare their numbers with the published list.
